

Mary Ohman

My name is Mary Ohman. I am married, have two adult children and four grandchildren. My family was personally introduced to the term traumatic brain injury in 2003. I became involved with the Brain Injury Alliance of South Dakota shortly thereafter because I wanted to become an advocate for individuals who have sustained a TBI. I am not a doctor, social worker or therapist, but I am a Mom. It is my intention to bring a personal perspective to the BIASD.
